MISS JANE MORGAN WEDS.

Philadelphia Girl is Bride of Hon. Cecil Fisher, of England.

Philadelphia, Nov. 22.—Miss Jane Morgan, daughter of Randall Morgan, of the United Gas Improvement Company, today was married to the Hon. Cecil Fisher, son of Lord Fisher, who until a short time ago was first lord of the British admiralty.

Philadelphia society attended the wedding in large numbers, and besides the bridegroom's father, two other distinguished English guests were Vice Admiral Sir Frederick Fisher, uncle of the bridegroom, who acted as best man, and the bridegroom's sister, the Hon. Mrs. Beatrice Need.

The admiral and his party will sail for England next Saturday. A few intimate friends and relatives of the families attended the wedding reception, and immediately afterward the bride and groom left on their wedding tour. They will live at Kilverston Hall, the Fisher country seat in Norfolk County, England.

MISS ROBESON A BRIDE.

Only Child of Former Cabinet Officer Married in London.

London, Nov. 22.—Ethel Robeson, daughter of the late George Maxwell Robeson, of Washington and New Jersey, was married in Christ Church, Piccadilly, today to William Sterling, son of Maj. Gen. John Barton Sterling, retired.

Miss Robeson is the only child of George Robeson, who was Secretary of the Navy in President Grant's Cabinet. He was a brigadier general under the governor of New Jersey at the beginning of the civil war, and became attorney general of the State in 1887. The late Mrs. Robeson and her only daughter have been distinguished factors in Washington's most exclusive society for some years.

Married Sixty-six Years Ago.

Middletown, N. Y., Nov. 22.—Mr. and Mrs. Eliza R. Harding will celebrate the sixty-sixth anniversary of their marriage at their home in this city today. Mr. Harding is eighty-eight years of age and his wife is eighty-five. Their entire married life has been spent in this section and both are in good health.

Miss Taft to Attend Army-Navy Game Saturday.

MISS COLTON TO ENTERTAIN

Sir Robert and Lady Hadfield have taken Sheridan Circle Home—Miss Anna Dickinson Thomas Bride of Mr. Albert Dean Currier—Wedding Party of Miss Winifred Davis.

Miss Helen Taft is expected to be one of the large party from Washington to attend the Army and Navy football game in Philadelphia on Saturday. Miss Taft will be the guest in whose honor Miss Marjorie Colton will entertain at a dinner on Wednesday, December 7. Miss Colton was to have left this month for Porto Rico, but has postponed her departure until December 10, reaching Porto Rico for the New Year's ball, which she and her brother, Gov. Colton, will give at the governor's palace. Mrs. Thomas T. Gaff will entertain a dinner company for Miss Taft December 8. Mrs. Richard Townsend, who will return to her Washington home about December 11, will have a ball in her honor on January 1.

Sir Robert and Lady Hadfield, brother-in-law and sister of Attorney General Wickersham, have taken the home of Gen. Charles L. Fitzhugh, at 225 Sheridan circle. They will return here from Hot Springs, Va., December 10, to take possession of this house for the winter. They have spent the autumn at Hot Springs, after traveling over this country during the summer.

Mr. Walter Tuckerman entertained at a dinner at the Chevy Chase Club last evening.

Mrs. Reyburn, wife of the mayor of Philadelphia, will take a party over to Philadelphia on Saturday for the Army and Navy game.

The wedding party of Miss Winifred Davis and Lieut. Richard C. Moore, who will be married December 7, will include Miss Dorothy Langfitt, maid of honor; Miss Maitland Marshall, Miss Mary Landis, bridesmaids, and the two little nieces of the bride, Miss Irene Davis and Miss Evelyn Peel, of Bridgeport, Conn., flower girls. The best man will be Lieut. Julian L. Schley, of the Engineer Corps, and the ushers will be Lieut. D. I. Fulton, Lieut. Max C. Tyler, and Lieut. Roger G. Alexander, all of the Engineer Corps, stationed at the Washington Barracks.

The ceremony will be performed in the presence of the relatives and a few intimate friends and will be followed by a small reception at the home of the bride's parents at the Highlands. They will go for a two months' bridal trip.

Dr. and Mrs. Murray Galt Motter have taken possession of their new home, 2314 Nineteenth street.

The wedding of Miss Anna Dickinson Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Thomas, of Elliott City, Md., to Mr. Albert Dean Currier, of Chicago, took place yesterday at noon in St. John's Church, Howard County, Md., and was followed by a reception and breakfast in the country home of the Thomases, near Elliott City. This was the culmination of a Washington romance, as the bride and bridegroom had their first meeting here last season, while the bride was visiting Miss Martha Harrison, her maid of honor, and the bridegroom was kept here a large part of the winter on business. The ceremony was attended by the most distinguished members of Baltimore society and the residents of the county. Rev. Edward Trail Helfenstein officiated. The quaint, historic church was beautifully decorated with palms and white and yellow blossoms. A floral canopy capped the chancel.

The bride was attended by Miss Martha Harrison as maid of honor and Miss Adelle Katherine Slack, of this city, and Miss Dorothea Knox, of Glenelg, Howard County. The best man was Mr. Charles A. Ailing, of Chicago, and the ushers were Messrs. Thomas H. Gaither, Jr., of Baltimore; Frank H. Most, of Norfolk, and Stockton Matthews and James Clark, of Howard County. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an ideal gown of white satin, embroidered, and veiled with white chiffon and trimmed with rare old lace, an heirloom in her family. Her veil was of valuable old Bourbon lace, which was worn by her grandmother's grandmother at her wedding, and is nearly 200 years old. She carried a shower of lilies of the valley and a superb diamond pendant, the gift of the bridegroom. The maid of honor wore shimmering white chiffon trimmed with pearls and crystals and narrow bands of Russian sable. Her hat was a large black velvet, with pink willow plumes, and she carried pink roses. The bridesmaids wore Kate Greenway gowns of yellow satin, veiled in white marquisette, trimmed in fur, with large white hats. They carried baskets of yellow daisies.

After the ceremony the wedding breakfast was held at Woodleigh, the home of the bride. The breakfast room was artistically decorated with potted plants, ferns, and flowers. Among the splendid gifts was a unique old-fashioned solid mahogany chest, well filled, the gift of the bride's grandmother. On the departure of the bride and bridegroom, Miss Knox, one of the bridesmaids, caught the bride's bouquet. The going-away gown was of black chiffon broadcloth of most modern cut, and she wore black lynn fur and a black velvet toque. They have gone to Lakewood, the honeymoon visit. They will spend the winter in Washington, where they will have an apartment; and where both bride and bridegroom have a large circle of friends. The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Thomas, of Howard County, is related to some of the most prominent Baltimore and Maryland families, and first came into social prominence in 1908, when she made her debut in Baltimore at the first Monday German. She is also well known among the society folk of the Green Spring Valley. The groom is a law partner of Representative Boutell, in Chicago.

Among the prominent out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest G.

A gift which would be appreciated by the most particular woman in town was a Thanksgiving offering of bonbons and chocolates from an exclusive confectioner's in G street, near Twelfth street. These should be sent for this occasion in an exquisite basket of satin straw or grass in one of this season's art craft designs. A very new shape is like a leaf, or heart-shaped, and is made of bull rush, the grass with which most of us were made familiar in our childhood days. These are lined and tufted with satin to match the grass, and make lovely work baskets or ornaments for one's dressing table, in which jewels or fancy feminine furbelows may be kept in remembrance of the donor, after the sweets have disappeared. A variety of charming designs and colors may be found in other styles equally

Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Gaither, and many other Baltimoreans.

A school-day romance, beginning at the University of California, where both were students and subsequently graduated from the same class, culminated Monday in the wedding of Miss Eva Smith, daughter of Representative and Mrs. Smith, of Bakersfield, Cal., and Esper S. Larson, of the United States Geological Survey, at Washington, D. C. Congressman Smith gave his daughter in marriage. Director George Otis Smith, of the Geological Survey, was one of the guests. The young couple will make their home in Washington.

Mrs. George W. Ray, who will present her daughter to society this winter, has changed the date of that function from December 15 to Friday afternoon, December 16. Miss Ray has recently returned from a trip to New York to visit relatives and attend the opera and horse show.

Miss Frances Miller will entertain at late December 16 in honor of Miss Louise Rayne, a debutante of this season. Miss Miller will go to Annapolis today, where she will be the guest of Mrs. Buchanan, but will return in time for the charity ball at the New Willard Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Fitch and the Misses Fitch, wife and daughters of the late Chief Engineer Henry W. Fitch, U. S. N., will sail on Saturday for Europe for a trip around the world. They will go in the party with Mrs. Fitch's relatives, Mrs. Chapman Thompson and Miss Adele Palmer Campau, of Detroit.

The Starmont Auxiliary (in aid of consumptives) will hold its annual tea and bazaar in the cabinet room of the New Willard on Friday and Saturday, December 2 and 3, from 12 noon to 10 in the evening.

The "Third Integration of Integral Exds" will take place at Mrs. Dyer's on December 22. Translated, this means the third degree of the patent examiners, who have held two very pretty and interesting ones already this season.

The Misses McCallen have taken possession of their new house at 200 Q street.

The third of the Junior Bachelors' assemblies this season will take place on Thursday evening, December 1, at Mrs. Dyer's, in R street. Dancing begins at 8:30 o'clock. Mrs. Dyer has begun her cotillions on Monday evenings.

Mrs. Ross Thompson entertained at a debutante tea yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, when she asked her guests to meet three of the season's buds—Miss Doris Haywood, Miss Amy Richardson, and Miss Louise Bayne. Presiding in the dining-room was Mrs. Blair and Mrs. Le Roy Tuttle, assisted by Miss Dorothy Deebie, also a debutante of the season.

Mrs. T. H. Stevens Vail entertained at luncheon yesterday in her apartments in the Champlain. Among her guests were Mme. de Villegas, wife of the charge d'affaires of the Argentine Legation; Mrs. French, wife of Capt. W. E. P. French, U. S. A.; Mrs. Stevens, wife of Rear Admiral Thomas H. Stevens, U. S. N.; Mrs. Gillespie, wife of Gen. George L. Gillespie, U. S. A.; Mrs. Duncan McCall, Mrs. Arthur Lee, Mrs. Goutrint, and Miss Gale.

Mrs. L. Z. Leiter has issued invitations for a dinner next Monday in compliment to Miss Marjorie Colton and Miss Eleanor Terry.

Mrs. Joseph E. Craig, wife of Rear Admiral Craig, U. S. N., has cards out for a tea on Thanksgiving Day from 6 to 6 o'clock at her new residence, 138 New Hampshire avenue.

Mrs. Wolcott Tuckerman entertained at a small informal luncheon yesterday at her home, in R street.

Miss Isabelle R. Hagner entertained at tea yesterday afternoon in honor of Miss Eleanor Terry and Lieut. Camperio.

Mrs. Loudon, wife of the Minister from the Netherlands, has loaned the drawing-rooms of the legation for a recital by the Kneisel Quartet on Tuesday, November 23, at 2:30 o'clock.

Miss Mary Landis, of Indiana, who is in Washington for the wedding of Miss Winifred Davis and Lieut. Richard C. Moore, U. S. A., at which she will be one of the bridesmaids, will entertain a box party at the National Theater Saturday afternoon, December 3, in honor of Velvet shoes are very much worn this season with the many velvet gowns in vogue for the street and dressy occasions as well. They are to be had at all prices, but I saw some rather stylish ones for $3.50 in a shoe shop in Seventh street, near Pennsylvania avenue.

A popular haberdasher in Fourteenth street, near New York avenue, has just received some very new things in men's bathrobes, which are marked at popular prices. These have been made to order for this firm. In consequence many of them have exclusive features. The new colorings in Terry crash robes, which are liked because they can be laundered like a bath towel, are very unusual, showing blues, rose, and other plain colors, with collars, cuffs, and pockets in a paler or contrasting shade. New effects in striped crash robes, showing a weave of two colors, are also very stylish. The new robes have slippers to match, lined with crash, which absorbs the dampness after a bath.

Some very smart blanket, lounging robes, also used for the bath, are noticed in new patterns, with long roll collars, after the English style, and having buttons and buttonholes instead of the usual cord fastenings.

Novelties in Washington's Smart Shops

By DOROTHY AVERY HOWARD

as artistic in different sizes and prices.

Individual salt cellars of cut glass with spoons of silver lined with gold are for sale in a jewelry store in F street, between Twelfth and Thirteenth, for 10 cents.

People who wish to send Christmas greetings with a note of individuality about them, and indicate a thought in advance, will order gold bordered cards engraved with Henry Van Dyke's Christmas wish, or other suitable expressions, decorated with a single poinsettia blossom and inscribed with the sender's name engraved from his visiting card plate, with envelopes to match. They cost 10 cents at a printing and engraving store in New York avenue, between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets. The same idea is carried out in a letter form, engraved from a plate, like a wedding invitation, and is put into an envelope lined with green or red, the holiday colors. These cost 25 cents. What could be more suggestive than the following message from an absent friend:

"I am thinking of you to-day because it is Christmas."
"I wish you happiness."
"And to-morrow, because it is the day after Christmas, I shall still wish you happiness, and so on clear through the year."

A very pretty waist shown by a ready-to-wear shop in F street, between Twelfth and Thirteenth, is of dark blue chiffon with a surplice front of exquisitely tinted Dresden silk over a vest of cream lace and cloth of gold. The Dresden silk was also used to form a giraffe which was very high in the back and, like the surplised ends, was caught in front with an oval gold braided buckle. Tiny loops of the flowered material with gold buttons adorned the yoke and the sleeves, which have cuffs of the lace to match the yoke.

Automobile velvins, set with cabochon sapphires or amethysts, are among the smart novelties shown by a jeweler in New York avenue, near Fifteenth street.

Rose Stahl's New Play.

Charles Klein, the author of "Maggie Pepper," the vehicle to be employed by Rose Stahl following the termination of her tour in James Forbes' comedy, "The Chorus Lady," which occurs immediately after the holidays, has taken a department store as the locale, character, and atmosphere for his play. The scenes are laid in New York, and have to do with the experiences of a young woman, who occupies a position of responsibility and trust, being in charge of an important department in a large retail mercantile establishment. Miss Stahl will have a characterization that admits of a splendid display of her talents as a comedienne, and also show her at her best in several emotional scenes.

Every character in the play is a distinct type with which the huge army of players are thoroughly conversant. Rehearsals will begin during Miss Stahl's farewell engagement in "The Chorus Lady," in Chicago, which will be played during the holidays.

Shakespeare or Bacon?

Some of the dramatic critics in country towns are as good as the real dramatic critics in the cities. An amateur production of "Hamlet" was given in a country town. When the weekly paper was published, it spoke of the show as follows: "There has long been a discussion as to who wrote the plays credited to Shakespeare—some say Shakespeare wrote them, others claim that Bacon wrote them. There is now a splendid opportunity to settle once and for all this vexing question. Last night 'Hamlet' was produced by our young people. Our suggestion is to dig up both Shakespeare and Bacon—the one that tutted over in his grave last night was the one who wrote 'Hamlet!'"

NOTES OF THE STAGE.

Stanislaus Stange, who has just recovered from a spell of illness, is leaving London this week for New York, where he will immediately get to work upon a new play for Fred C. Whitney.

May Irwin has burst upon New York in "Getting a Poll," with all the freshness of a new star, when she is decidedly a veteran of the stage.

Opera patrons of Bayonne, France, were given the sensation of their lives a few nights since when Mile. Lucy Sternal, prima donna, went raving mad during her performance of "Carmen." She hurled curses and insults at the audience, a riot resulting which was only quelled when Mile. Sternal was placed in a straitjacket and the theater was cleared by the gendarmes. The unfortunate lady, who was one of the most beautiful and talented singers on the French opera stage, is said to be hopelessly insane.

"The Happiest Night of His Life," with Victor Moore as the star, had its first performance Monday night at the Academy of Music, in Baltimore. According to the great success scored by Mrs. Leslie Carter in her new production, "Two Women," under the management of John Cort, the Messrs. Shubert have agreed with Mr. Cort to find an immediate New York opening for the distinguished emotional star.

The lull in Elsie Ferguson's tour is but temporary, as Henry B. Harris is bending every energy to find a new play suitable for this star.

Robert T. Haines is to succeed Edmund Breece in the principal role of "The Spendthrift," a change made necessary because of Mr. Breece's assignment by Henry B. Harris to the role of the Devil, in Percy Mackaye's "The Scarecrow."

WHY BACON IS SCARCE.

Sample of Nonsense Offered to Explain Expensive Living.

From the St. Louis Times.
The price of bacon, as the public has already discovered, has gone up as much as 5 cents on the pound, where the best grade is concerned, and almost as much on the lower grades.

Here is an explanation that has been offered by a man who has his being in a bacon atmosphere:
There was such an enormous crop of corn this year that it behooved the hog raiser to feed his stock almost exclusively on corn, though in normal years slops and "mast" have been largely depended upon.

As a result of the corn diet, the hogs have grown to unusual sizes. And here is where the question of bacon, and the price of bacon comes in. It seems that a hog must not weigh more than 150 to 175 pounds if it is to yield the best grade of bacon—according to the expert whose figures and facts we are taking into consideration. But the hogs this year have attained a weight of from 200 to 300 pounds; that is to say, the hogs which should have weighed but half that much, or thereabouts, for bacon's sake.

And so, according to our truthful authority, there is a scarcity of Al bacon, and the price has had to be advanced 5 cents per pound.

Also, according to this bacon expert, this is the time of the year that vegetarians turn to bacon. Now that the season of fruits and vegetables has passed, bacon comes in handy.

All of which we recount here, not because it sounds to us any more convincing than "The Tale of the Kangaroo," but because it throws a bright light upon the methods adopted by certain intellects, by which some people are "gouged" as long as they have as much as a sou to pay as a tribute to sharp wits.
